

We've met November 16, The International day of tolerance, declaring tolerance to ourselves, our environment, our nice school and cleaner profession wearing slippers. Everyone: small and big, the first graders and the eighth graders, teachers and school management personnel were walking not in shoes, but in warm, clean, comfortable slippers. In the first lesson teachers and pupils were explaining, recalling the meaning of word tolerance, examples of intolerance. There was no place for envy, bullying or bad mood this day.
